(BY OFFICIAL REPORTER)
When Mrs. Mable Quam Stevens came on the platform at the Assembly last evening, she delighted the audience before she had spoken a word, but when she spoke they were doubly pleased. She wore a black dress with red trimmings and touches of green, with a very full cream colored overdress or tunic which was held in at the waist by a wide red sash except one corner caught higher up. On her head was a turban matching the tunic, with red and green trimmings in the form of tassels. She is a very beautiful woman, unusually so, with regular features, bright eyes and a strong, vibrant voice. She is of Norwegian parentage and her ancestors came over from Europe in their own private galleys called the "Norwegian Mayflower" for they came to have religious freedom. Mrs. Stevens was born in Illinois, but her home is in St. Augustine, Fla.
She opened her lecture with a very interesting description contrasting the freedom of the women in Palestine at the present time with the restrictions of even fifteen or twenty years ago. Then she talked of our American women, and quoted from one who had startled her until she thought it through, when he said "I believe that womanhood in America is responsible for three-fourths of the sins of men." Mrs. Stevens divided the life of American women into five worlds—the school, church, political, (Continued on page three.)

FEW MINERS AT WORK IN MINES UNDER GUARDS

Response to Indiana
Governor's Plea
Negligible.

COAL STRIKE SUMMARY

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Cleaning up of mines preparatory to the mining of coal for state institutions was begun in Indiana today, under the protection of 800 state troops. Few laborers responded to the governor's call and importation of workmen from Chicago was contemplated.
Fuel shortage was reported to be approaching a critical stage in a number of states. In Wisconsin the supply of anthracite coal was said to have been exhausted. Michigan state institutions faced shut down in a few days. Georgia industries were feeling the pinch to a greater extent than at any time since the strike began.

The conference of governors at the office of Gov. McCray of Indiana, was attended by Governor Davis of Ohio, Governor Grosbeck of Michigan and by a representative of Governor Morrow of Kentucky.

Specific plans for the distribution of coal, which were being drawn up by Fuel Distributor Spencer, were expected to be completed today.

Stanton Ind., Aug. 3.—Although 800 Indiana national guardsmen were ordered today to protect miners who might respond to Governor McCray's message calling for volunteers to dig coal for state institutions and essential industries, there was little activity at the two mines which it was proposed to open under state supervision.

Whistles at the mines were blown this morning, but few workmen responded. National guard officers said a small force was at work cleaning up the mines and putting machinery in operation. It was also understood that plans had been made for importing workers from Chicago to operate the mines from which coal is produced by the strip mining methods. There has been no show of hostility toward the troops by the striking miners since the guardsmen arrived yesterday from Camp Know, Kentucky, where they were encamped for summer training. Martial law was put into effect in Stanton, Williamson, Turner and Cloverland, and some adjacent territory.

FRIENDS OF DEAD MAN TRY TO NOMINATE HIM FOR OFFICE IN TENN.

Candidate Died in Washington Yesterday; Women Voting.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—With women voting in Tennessee elections for the first time, Democrats of the state will today nominate candidates for United States senators, representatives, governor and state officers. Republicans also will nominate candidates for several offices including those of senator and governor. Chief interest is centered in the Democratic senatorial and gubernatorial races.

Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, incumbent, is being opposed by Captain Gus T. Fitzhugh and Noah W. Cooper, "blue law" advocate for senate. The senatorial campaign has been waged on two big issues—the bonus and a labor non-partisan questionnaire. McKellar, favoring the bonus and said to have the support of organized labor has been criticized by Fitzhugh, while McKellar has charged Fitzhugh with "Newberryism" declaring that his campaign expenditures have been excessive. Cooper declares that he is "running against Satan."

The gubernatorial race is a four cornered affair between former Governor Benton McMillan, Austin Peay, General Harvey H. Hannah and L. E. Gwinn.

Hull is Unopposed.
In the congressional races Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic National Committee is opposed in the fourth district. Representative Finis J. Garrett, minority leader in the house, is opposed by W. W. Craig of Ripley. Representatives Davis, Byrnes and Fisher are unopposed for re-nomination.

Representative Emanuel Padgett who died in Washington yesterday, was a candidate for re-nomination, and his friends say that, though dead, they will make every effort to re-nominate him.

There are contests for the Democratic nomination in the 7th, 8th and 9th districts and for the Republican nomination in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd districts. The Democrats expect to make a fight to regain the third, fourth and eighth districts, which they lost to the Republicans two years ago.

Governor Alf. A. Taylor, incumbent, is unopposed for the Republican nomination for governor. Republican candidates for the senatorial nomination are Former Senator Sanders of Chattanooga, Thomas F. Peck, present commissioner of agriculture, Henry B. Anderson and John W. Farley, the latter two of Memphis.

Silver is Found in Barren Field

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Fitzgerald, Alta., (via Fort Murray Aug. 3.—A find of silver in the barren lands northeast of here has been made, which, it is claimed, will be at least on a par with the silver mines of northern Ontario, according to word just received here. The report is substantiated by samples of the silver ore, brought into the Trading Company's post here by Jack Sarcee, a prospector.

The ore was gone over carefully by two well known northern geologists Dr. Horne and Dr. O'Neill, who pronounced the find as being very valuable. The examinations made by the geologists were conducted independently and at different times, one stating that the ore would run $800 to the ton, while the other estimated it at $775.

It is stated to be high grade free milling ore and in common with the substantiation of the existence of oil at Fort Norman in commercial quantities, it is looked upon as one of the biggest happenings in the north for many years.

Milk Marketing to Be Discussed Friday at Palmyra Twp. Hall

A meeting has been arranged for Palmyra town hall, Friday evening, at 8:00 o'clock to which all dairymen are invited. The new plan of milk marketing evolved by the committee of nine appointed by the American Farm Bureau Federation will be discussed by a member of that committee. The proposed plan of milk marketing is creating much interest especially in districts where it has already been presented and understood, and it is hoped there will be a good attendance at this meeting to enter into discussion regarding milk marketing.

THE PROBLEMS OF LOCOMOTION

"HENRY AND ME" KEEP UP ARGUMENT CAUSED BY PLACARD IN PAPER

Each Has Letter Published in Chicago Paper This Morning.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—"Henry and me," in letters to the Chicago Tribune, published today, defend their respective positions in the controversy over the placard recently displayed by William Allen White, the "me" of the combination, in the window of his newspaper office.

"Henry"—Governor Henry Allen of Kansas—says in his letter: "I observe that you are laboring under the impression that William Allen White is being prosecuted for violation of some law which relates to free speech. This is not the case. The phase of the law which Mr. White violated was that which guarantees to every man freedom to work. He entered into a conspiracy with others to intimidate the men who are working. I don't wish to utter a disagreeable note, but it must be perfectly obvious that if you had had in Illinois a law of this character there would not have existed at Herrin, Illinois, freedom to murder those who were exercising their constitutional right to be employed in useful labor."

The Tribune in a published statement answers the letter of Gov. Allen, by saying: "His opinion may be based on some facts which we do not know and which he does not state. Mr. White put a placard in his window expressing himself 49 per cent in sympathy with the strikers. How that in the faintest way was part of a conspiracy to intimidate men at work we cannot see. If he did not have the right to make that statement in his paper or otherwise, then he did not have the right of free speech in an industrial controversy which admittedly is not yet settled, even as to the equities involved. The Kansas law, prohibiting strikes in certain essential industries, makes the method of their protest illegal in that state, but if it is applied to prevent an expression of opinion it is tyranny."

The statement, taking up the governor's reference to Herrin says: "Illinois has laws which fully cover that case. Legal precautions were not taken and legal consequences may not follow, but that is not the fault of the law. It is the fault of a community which refuses to apply the law and we do not see how anything can be done about it without trespassing upon long tried American institutions. Mr. White's Letter.
Mr. White's letter said in part: "My utterance did not need a postscript. But what hurt me was my friends' (Continued on Page Two)

SURFACE LINES HEADS CONSIDER TENTATIVE PEACE

Overtures May Be Made to Union Officials for Vote.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Aug. 3.—Details of a tentative plan for peace in Chicago's street railway strike were being discussed today by the surface line company's board of control. It was understood that when objections of the board have been eliminated the plan would be submitted to the union leaders, and if it met their approval be submitted to the strikers for a referendum vote.
Meanwhile the greatly augmented motor fleet, moving in steady streams with increasing facility and decreasing confusion. Four deaths have resulted from motor accidents in the city since the strike began. A number of persons have suffered minor injuries. Police officials say the small number of accidents is remarkable.

Sutherland Keeps His Lead in W. Va.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3.—With 246 precincts missing this morning Senator Sutherland maintained his lead over H. C. Ogden, the Wheeling publisher for the republican nomination for U. S. senator. Returns from 1,729 of the 2,995 precincts in West Virginia gave Sutherland, 48,161; Ogden, 43,623.
M. M. Neely increased his lead over Mrs. Izetta Jewell Brown, for the Democratic senatorial nomination. The vote was Neely, 47,453; Mrs. Brown, 31,254.

Rollers Must Roll Early in Morning

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Waukegan, Ill., Aug. 3.—Rolling in Waukegan's two Holy Rollers church must be confined to the early hours of the evening, according to an ultimatum delivered to the congregations by police.
Following complaints from neighbors that the rollers, in their zeal disturbed the sleep of nearby families and were a common nuisance, police fixed a 9 p. m. curfew law for the church services.

Missouri Woman to Run Against Roach

By Associated Press Leased Wire
St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3.—Mrs. St. Clair Moss of Christian College, Columbia Mo., apparently has won the Democratic nomination for congress from the 8th Missouri district from her two male opponents. Mrs. Moss will oppose republican Congressman Sid E. Roach at the November election.

HUTCHINSON EDITOR IN LEAD FOR NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR IN KAS.

Is Leading Former State
Executive By About
10,000 Votes.

Topeka Kas. Aug. 3.—(By The Associated Press.)—With returns from Tuesday's primary election available from approximately 75 per cent of the state today, W. Y. Morgan, Hutchinson editor, was leading Ex-Governor W. R. Stubbs of Lawrence for the republican nomination for Governor by about 10,000 votes. The count showed Morgan 46,316; Stubbs 36,566.

In the race for republican nomination for supreme justice, Division Number 1, Richard J. Hopkins, Garden city, attorney general, was leading Justice Silas Porter of Kansas city Kansas, by 755 votes. This race had attracted considerable attention because of Hopkins' ruling in connection with the industrial court. Some of these, it was believed, had cost him votes from the labor element.

Woman Defeated
Miss Elizabeth Wooster who had been Superintendent of School for two years, apparently was defeated for re-nomination on the republican ticket by Jesse Miley, president of the state teachers association, the available count indicated. Miley was leading by 12,000 votes. Miss Wooster became a well known official because of her reforms.

There were few contests for nomination on the Democratic ticket. Jonathan Davis of Bourbon county, had apparently won the nomination for governor on that ticket, with Henderson S. Martin of Lawrence running second. Of Kansas' eight representatives in congress all republicans three were without opposition in their party, four were re-nominated by substantial pluralities, but Phil Campbell, member for twenty years from the third district, lost to W. H. Sproul of Sedan. Campbell's manager early yesterday conceded his principal's defeat. But Campbell and Dan Anthony of the first district who was re-nominated, were considered foremost in the "old guard" of the party in Kansas. Purely local questions prevailed in the other contested districts.

Uncle Sam Will Not Change His Policies

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Aug. 3.—Great Britain's note to her debtor nations suggesting cancellation of the whole inter-related indebtedness will cause no change in the policy of the United States toward its foreign debts, it was stated officially today at the treasury.

DEEP MYSTERY IN MURDER OF AURORA MINER

Believed to Have Been Killed By Man Who
Owed Him Money.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Auburn, Ill., Aug. 3.—Mystery surrounding the death early yesterday of John Markesi, Italian miner, who was killed by a blow on the head as he stood with a drawn revolver to protect himself, deepened this morning, when authorities discovered footprints on the roof of Markesi's home, and concluded that he had been killed not by a blow dealt by a hand, but by the dropping of a railroad coupling pin on his head.

The coroner's inquest brought no additional clue to the identity of the men who had threatened Markesi, but it was developed that there were four of them instead of three, and that they could speak English readily. As they went from Markesi's house early Monday morning after warning him to leave town within 24 hours or suffer death, one called to the others, "hurry up fellows," according to testimony of a neighbor at the inquest.

Belief that a debtor of Markesi's inspired the murder so as to relieve him of repayment of a loan, is a theory the sheriff is working on, but hopes little from. Markesi had an excellent reputation for peacefulness, the sheriff said. He lived alone, a bachelor, worked steadily at the coal mines until the strike came, and never was known to drink intoxicating liquor. He came from Italy 30 years ago and had lived here 17 years. One relative, a brother who is also a miner at Spring Valley, is expected here today to direct disposition of the body.

Dixonites Return from Wisconsin Tour

Mr. and Mrs. George Fruin and J. H. Hersam returned home Tuesday night from Marshfield, Wis. The Fruins have been farming near Marshfield for some time and have moved back to Dixon to make their home. They brought back samples of oats, barley, clover and peas from the north central part of Wisconsin, where their farm is located, which far exceeds the same products grown in this locality this season. Farmers in that locality are harvesting more than a hundred bushels of oats and barley to the acre, according to reports brought back by the Dixon party.

Mr. Hersam spent some time in Meriden county, visiting the big cheese factories. There are more than 200 cheese factories in this one county and Mr. Hersam made the acquaintance of a Mr. Rasmussen who is credited with being the champion cheese maker of that part of the state. A sample of the product of the Rasmussen factory would at once convince the most skeptical that he is an expert in his profession.

Glenn Plumb, Known Here, Died Tuesday

Glenn E. Plumb, counsel for sixteen large railroad companies, author of the famous "Plumb Plan," and at one time a Dixon electric railway promoter, died at Washington, D. C. Tuesday night. About thirty years ago Mr. Plumb was active in this city promoting a proposed electric line along Rock River, which, however, never materialized. At that time he had offices in this city.

Mr. Plumb a native of Iowa, came into national prominence in 1918 when he advanced the plan for railroad operation that bears his name as a solution of the problem of post-war treatment of the transportation lines then under government control and operation. In belief, his plan was nationalization of the carriers with control vested in directorates in which the public, the executive staffs of the lines and the rail employees should have equal representation.

Champion Leonard May Visit Europe

Michigan City Ind., Aug. 3.—(By The Associated Press.)—Because of the danger of re-opening the cut over his right eye, received in the match with Lew Tendler, Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, will do no boxing in preparation for his ten round contest with Ever Hammer, Saturday afternoon. This was the announcement of Billy Gibson, manager of the champion, today after he examined the injury.
There are really two cuts, the most dangerous is the one in the eyebrow. The other is in the eyelid. This is nearly healed.
As Leonard rests here on the front porch of his cottage on the shore of Lake Michigan he is planning ahead for an extended trip to Europe to show his class in foreign rings before he decides to lay aside the gloves and retire.
Both Hammer and Leonard will virtually wind up their training tomorrow.

NO FORECAST OF ANY PEACE MOVE FORECAST TODAY

President Has Acceptance of Strikers;
More Violence.

RAIL STRIKE SUMMARY

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Today's developments in the rail strike included:
Official announcement of formation of Association of New Employees by 10,000 Santa Fe workers.
Suggestions for a meeting in the near future of the twelve unions not on strike, including the Brotherhood, to discuss the general shopcrafts strike situation and "possible action."
Scattering reports of violence from all parts of the country.
Annulment of 20 passenger trains by the Texas & Pacific.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—There was a lull today in peace maneuvers in the railroad strike. Rail men were reticent and there was no forecast of where the next peace effort would originate. Strike leaders turned their attention toward Washington, where President Harding had a telegram, sent by the shopmen last night after their meeting here, accepting his peace proposals on condition that the unions interpretation of the settlement suggestions be recognized. Railroad executives were also awaiting news from the capital, after their acceptance of the President's proposals excepting that regarding restoration of seniority rights to strikers.

Railroad men noted the invitation of the Southern Railway to striking shopmen to negotiate for a settlement based on President Harding's plan, but made no comment.

At Dallas, Texas, the Texas division headquarters of the M. & T. announced that union men now on strike would be employed only as new men.
Violence is Reported
Violence was reported from six cities in as many states during the night. Four of the disturbances assumed the proportions of riots, one resulting in the death of one man.
Carl Spradley was killed during an exchange of shots at Vanburen, Ark. between guards in the Missouri Pacific shops and men said to be strikers. The dead man's brother Will Spradley, was wounded, but will recover, physicians say.
At Jackson, Mich., several police officers and striking shopmen were slightly injured when more than a thousand strikers and sympathizers, including many women and children, attacked non-union workers with sticks, stones, eggs and other missiles as the non-union men were leaving the shops of the Michigan Central Railroad.
Eighty strike sympathizers attacked more than 60 workers in the Chicago Great Western shops at Des Moines, Ia. One man was severely injured and a dozen of the workers were missing when police stopped the fighting.
Three special guards of the Southern Pacific at East Bakersfield, Calif. were fired on. Police investigated, but made no arrests.
Attack Maim's Home
In Lincoln, Neb., more than a hundred men, women and boys, said to be strikers and sympathizers, attacked the home of a Burlington route car foreman with bricks and stones. Police dispersed the crowd. A demonstration before the home of another worker was also broken up by the police.

Four non-union employees of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas were beaten with sticks and ropes and pulled a train at Upton, Texas, by 12 men said to be strikers.
A strike sympathizer at Springfield, Ill., was sentenced to 30 days in jail for violating a federal injunction by tearing one of the printed injunction notices from a telegraph pole.
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul was granted a temporary restraining order forbidding interference with operations in Helena, Mont., by the federal court.

Today's Market Report

(By Associated Press Leased Wire.)

Wheat Drops to New Low Prices on Board

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Wheat dropped today to new low record prices for the 1922 crop. The all took place in the early dealings, and appeared to be due chiefly to pressure of hedging and to favorable weather for harvesting. Besides receipts here were larger, being estimated at 500 car loads. Opening prices which ranged from 1/2 to 3/4 lower, with Sept. 1.05 to 1.07 and Dec. 1.07 to 1.09, were followed by a moderate further decline and then something of a reaction.

Corn and oats were easy with wheat. After opening unchanged to 1/2 lower, Sept. 61%, the corn market declined a little more and then recovered somewhat. Oats started a shade lower to a like advance, Sept. 32 to 34, and held near the initial figures. Provisions lacked support.

4 REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN WERE BEATEN

Tuesday's Primaries in Several States Were Surprising.

(By Associated Press Leased Wire)

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Four republican and one democratic congressman apparently had failed of reformation in Tuesday's primary in Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas, according to reports received here today.

The question of progressivism or conservatism did not enter these contests, except in the third Kansas district where Representative Campbell was defeated.

In only one district according to the returns in Missouri, was a woman candidate leading. Besides Miss Alice Robertson of the second Oklahoma district, who was renominated, Mrs. St. Clair Moss of Christian College, Columbia, Missouri, had the advantage over two men opponents for the democratic nomination.

In its national aspect, the defeat of Phil Campbell, member for 29 years from the third Kansas district, and chairman of the powerful house rules committee, probably caused the greatest sensation. That W. H. Sprout of Sedan, who carried the support of labor, would be returned the victor, had been regarded in Kansas as probable, but was entirely unexpected outside the state.

Another picturesque figure, Manuel Horrick, from the 8th Oklahoma district, also will pass from congress as the result of the voting. The second Oklahoma congressman to fail by the wayside was T. A. Chandler of the 1st district. Their failure to achieve renomination was regarded as due to local conditions.

To Take Rhineland from Germany French Plan for Punishment

Paris, Aug. 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Separation of the Rhineland from Germany, with its own parliament and government and a separate financial regime supervised by the allied powers, is part of the scheme of penalties presented to Premier Poincare as representative of the opinion of the French parliament, and which he is known to have taken under consideration.

The scheme, which would be put into effect on the definite refusal of the German government to fulfill the agreement for payment of private debts owing to French citizens by Germans since before the war, also involves the expulsion of all the Prussian functionaries from the Rhineland by natives.

Other provisions include an extension in the powers of the allied Rhineland Commission and measures of economic pressure on the principal German industries amenable to the action of the commission, such as the textile dye industry, the iron industries of Hugo Stinnes, August Thyssen, the Krupp and Franz Haniel, and others which are more or less dependent on the occupying forces for the freedom of transit of raw materials in the region of Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort.

It was a fight between the Ku Klux Klan and other secret orders on the one side and the Roman Catholic church and union labor on the other, was the way the biggest democratic newspaper of Oklahoma summed up the situation. Walton was strenuously opposed by his newspaper in the primary campaign.

The Ku Klux Klan issue was openly injected into the campaign several days ago before the election by the circulation of slates, purporting to have emanated from the Klan, endorsing Wilson and black-listing Walton, who has announced his opposition to the Klan in strong terms.

Man Gave Life to Save Sweetheart

Ontonagon, Mich., Aug. 3.—Plunging into a small river west of here to rescue his sweetheart, Miss Doris McKinner who had stepped into a deep hole, Al Nelson of Elgin, Illinois, was drowned late last evening. Miss McKinner was saved by Leo Goulet of Ontonagon.

Goulet then brought Nelson's body to the surface, but artificial respiration failed and in the absence of a pulmer efforts to resuscitate the youth were unavailing. Nelson had been spending his vacation here and was to motor back to Elgin, accompanied by the lady who teaches in the Elgin school.

Lawrence Poole, Fred Andrews, Misses Lucille Shetter of this city and Doris Davis of Plattsburg, Ohio, have returned from a motor trip to Lakes Delavan and Geneva and Crystal Lake.

"Strikers Beat Me," Says Defeated Man

Monticello, Ill., Aug. 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Congressman Phil Campbell, chairman of the rules committee of the national house of representatives said this afternoon "that it seems that the idle coal miners and the striking shoemen defeated me" in his contest with William Sprout of Sedan, Kas., for the republican congressional nomination in the third Kansas district. Sprout had the endorsement of the labor forces in Kansas. Congressman Campbell asserted.

On Commercial street, the men, bankers, doctors and private concerns, who own no newspapers and who were muzzled by the governor's order. That I might have the test with the sting out—I mean the sting of being a radical strike sympathizer—I cut down the percent of sympathy to 50 per cent which being translated was the average man's view. Then I decided the law because the legislature not being in session, I could not take part if a fight to repeal it. Annulment was my only course. But after the case was filed I took down the poster; it had achieved its end.

"And if it is settled by reason, we must guarantee to every man free utterance of what he finds best suited to his place in the world. We must only make him temperate."

The letter continued in an explanation of Mr. White's views on government and the rights of individuals under the government. It was published without comment by the newspaper.

KLAN IS BEATEN IN OKLAHOMA BY BIG PLURALITY

Catholics and Labor Unite to Defeat Alleged K. K. K.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 3.—(By The Associated Press)—A smashing victory for the opponents of the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma, combining their strength with the farmer union labor element, was the result of the voting. More than two thirds of the estimated total democratic vote cast in Tuesday's primary giving Major J. C. Walton of Oklahoma City virtual assurance of a big plurality for the democratic nomination for governor.

Walton anti-Klan and farmer-labor candidate, had a lead of almost 21,000 votes over his nearest rival, R. H. Wilson, superintendent of the state Board of Education, alleged K. K. K. entry. This was on the face of unofficial returns from 1,783 precincts out of 2,837 in the state.

Walton drew his support in the voting from Roman Catholics, who are declared to have been united against Wilson because of his alleged endorsement of the Ku Klux Klan; the union workers; farmer voters subscribing to the program of the farmer-labor reconstruction league of Oklahoma; socialists and negroes.

It was a fight between the Ku Klux Klan and other secret orders on the one side and the Roman Catholic church and union labor on the other, was the way the biggest democratic newspaper of Oklahoma summed up the situation. Walton was strenuously opposed by his newspaper in the primary campaign.

The Ku Klux Klan issue was openly injected into the campaign several days ago before the election by the circulation of slates, purporting to have emanated from the Klan, endorsing Wilson and black-listing Walton, who has announced his opposition to the Klan in strong terms.

Each day is a birth and one awakening, a passing span of time to work our will. To all of us it brings its joy, hopes and aspirations. It also brings its trials and discouragement. Few of us realize that with the passing of our span of life grows shorter and that we have less time in which to work if we but knew, but to many of us it lies in the value of the Lost Chord. It is sad to think that we have not been stirred by this inward music of the soul for it would drive us ever onward and upward to undreamed of heights.

CHICAGO JURIST TO LECTURE IN DIXON TOMORROW EVENING

social, home—and proved her with the majority influence in each. Higher standards among women will bring men to the same level. She spoke of the criticism that women are doing too much outside of their homes, replying to it "There is something contagious in the community beside whooping cough and measles, and my boy got something from your boy, so we are becoming community mothers." She told a story of the time when she took money intended for a new rocking chair and used it to take her boy's chum with them on a trip. While gone he needed medical care. She paid the bill, adding that she had more enjoyment in her neighbor's boy than in "an old dead rocking chair."

Prefers Woman's Dress

The costume of Mrs. Stevens represented that worn by the men of Palestine, and "I prefer to be dressed like a woman," she said. So she slipped off the tunic and turban, and stood in the dress of a woman of Bethlehem, the scene of the story of Ruth. The black dress which had peeked out from under the tunic, had vertical stripes of dark red, with a few horizontal ones at the lower part of the black panel, while at each side light green insets spread wide at the skirt bottom from their points at the hips. There was a deep, richly colored yoke of red, with green and cream, wide sleeves reaching just below the elbow, their uppers in red and green stripes, the lower parts in black. A very wide sash draped gracefully about her waist. It was of a small plaid in the three prominent colors of her costume. Her head dress was a red band with gold applique, to which a veil was caught with a strip of black. The veil was a beauty, of color and design representing the tribe or nation from which they sprung. So when the shepherds came to the stable to find the infant Christ, they looked for the infant having the ancestry which would indicate His being all that the angels had claimed for Him. They found the tribe of Judah, and looking closer they saw the Scarlet Band of Moab, Ruth's country, and they went away satisfied.

The picture which Mrs. Stevens presented of the home happiness of Ruth and Boaz, was very beautiful, and she closed her lecture with a description of similar conditions in American life. The perfect woman is strong in body, keen in intellect, strong in will, pure in soul. She told of a little bungalow where she once was entertained. A young woman in house dress met her at the door, and invited her to the kitchen. "I want to visit with you every minute, and I do my own work, for we are just getting a start."

Later she asked her to look after the baby for a little, but not to take him up, as they never did that. Through a crack in the door, Mrs. Stevens saw her hostess sitting in the parlor reading the newspaper. When she returned, she asked: "Did you see me in the kitchen?" "I cannot tell a lie, I did."

"Then I must explain. I must keep abreast of my husband out in the great wide world, so every day I read the paper to know what is going on, then we can talk about it at dinner."

"Go back and read some more, if that is the reason, I will care for the baby, and get the supper."

"No, thank you, I have looked it over enough."

Her recipe book had one cup sugar, one cup H<sub>2</sub>O, and she used scientific terms there to keep her from forgetting her college courses.

Dressed for Husband.

She had not changed her dress for her guest, but did so for the coming of her husband, returning in an expensive but tasty robe of a becoming pink. "I caught him with this color, and I will keep him with it."

She had not forgotten her music, and after the lecture played most delightfully on the piano. "Bobby wakes me up at five every morning, and I am fresh then to practice." And Mrs. Stevens went to sleep in the clean little room upstairs to the sound of her voice to which was added his rich baritone, singing Holy Night.

They were modern Ruth and Boaz.

The lecture was preceded by a concert given by the Dixon Symphony Orchestra. They gave five numbers, one of which was a violin solo by Miss Myrtle Smith. Miss Smith plays with a good, strong tone, and favored with a sweet, expressive encore. Another number had a bird-like whistling part. If anything, the concert was finer than that given by the orchestra the night before. Their appearance on Saturday evening will be anticipated with pleasure.

Day of Fine Lectures.

The night lecture was a fitting climax to those of the day, for it was a day of fine lectures. In the morning, Prof. Hefebower continued his enjoyable course on Religious Education. He discussed the present program, saying that there is practically no universally accepted one, this being a testing time of methods and materials, some of which are contradictory and some supplementary.

The English Primer was the book in which our great grandfathers learned to read, then they used the Bible as their next reader. The primer was full of moral teachings. It disappeared about 1835-40. Some think the public school system of America is almost heretically sealed against religious instruction, by the separation of church and state. Not all agree to this, but the accepted condition throws responsibility on the church.

The attempts to link religious education to the present school system have been numerous. The first was fifteen or eighteen years ago when Protestants, Catholics and Jews undertook to select Bible passages pleasing to all for reading in public school. Though not a permanent success, there is some such reading done, and some states plan to make it legally required. Seven or eight years ago the Minnesota play came up, which gives high school credit for Sunday school study under proper conditions, but it doesn't "scratch" the surface of reaching the great unchurched. Another method is to start a new school, such as the Week Day School of Religion, outside of school hours; or the Vacation School. Both of these were discussed at some length by Dr. Hefebower and others. Then he closed with, "We do not know whether these will be here ten years from now, but if not, there will be something better. The form of organization must be such as may be used by believers anywhere, and it must be on sound educational principles."

New Speaker Here.

A new speaker was introduced for the last last period of the morning, Dr. R. Neuman, of Burlington, Iowa. He is President of the Wartburg Synod and a member of the Lutheran Literature Board. Dr. Neuman is a rich, powerful speaker, and his message of the next morning was anticipated the more keenly after hearing him. His subject Wednesday was, "The Christ For Me," to be followed by "The Christ Within Us."

Abundant capital is furnished the world in the lives of great men. Greater sacrifice no man has made than He who gave His life on Golgotha. His is the most glorious pattern of a life. To know the Christ is to discern His benefits upon men, the greatest of which come from the atonement. His death for us, all without which we could not have the Christ Within Us. His death was foretold by the prophets and by Christ Himself, who gave His life willingly, for He had power to keep it. Paul's theology is based on Christ's dying for us. He came in the fulness of time. His death is not legal justice, but saving justice, it was to the uttermost, it showed the infinite love and eternal wisdom of God to us now, and at the end of life it will be Christ For Us. To take the crucifixion out of the gospel would be to rob it of its power. The Christ For Us is a revelation of salvation which more and more must extend its influence in our lives.

Dr. Hoover's Lecture.

In the afternoon, Dr. Hoover gave another of his delightful series of lectures, which we could not have the Christ Within Us. Speaking of his lectures, he said that they are not as a ready-made garment but are cloth from which to make our own thoughts. Some spiritual clothing is more scanty than that of the seashore. Jesus did not put a book in the hands of Nicodemus—he gave him something to think about. Results are much with the listener.

thought we were suffering in the depths. Ascending mountains means going into trouble, jealousy, opposition. We require greater strength and virtue to live on the mountain top than to reach there.

According to Mathew, Jesus sat for three days on a mountain by the sea, teaching the multitudes. He was on a mountain top those days in that He had a vision of humanity as citizens of heaven and He did not over look their work and need. It was on that battlefield that He transformed the wilderness into a cathedral chimes for His Father.

We must beware of mountain tops, lest we lose our footing among the hidden dangers.

The disciples must have been very poorly prepared when He sent them out, but He did it not only that others might have their message but for their own sakes. So sometimes our imperfections become the very thing we need to prepare us for the larger service. Jesus sent them, and they were to do their best. All life is preparation for larger service, and may not every mountain in our life be something to help us nearer God.

Certainty of Christ.

Rev. Kennedy closed the afternoon program with his lecture on The Certainty of Jesus. We cannot teach Christ unless we know Him ourselves. We must be sure that He is the one promised by the prophets if we are to make Him real to others. Jesus Christ is the center of all faith. Without Him Christianity falls. He is the mighty Savor of mankind.

The New Testament picture of Jesus is as much to be believed as any other history. Never before did angles sing at a birth, or the sun behave itself unseemly when one died. The four gospels give us not the portrait of a man but of the mighty Son of God.

People who do not believe in Christ ought to move to some country where the church is not. No. They wish to live under the shadow of the church and reap its benefits.

The power of the presence of Christ in our lives is a witness to Christ. The testimony of the church is that Jesus is with her throughout the ages.

He is the giver of forgiveness. He is the one who can transform life and home life. Christ lifts man from earth to God and brings God down to man.

C. Yes. I know some of them.

A. Well! If that's so, what do you want to send to Chicago for? That's the grandest music I've heard in a long time.

Much interest is being shown in the loan of $30,000 by Cochran & McCher, Chicago, and several thousand were purchased the next day after the announcement was given in the auditorium. $10,000 was subscribed by Dixon people and other friends last year, and it will be great advantage to the Assembly if the other $20,000 can be disposed of at this time. These bonds have been examined by the Chicago Title & Trust Co., which finds them safe in every way. The bonds are at 7%, run from one to eight years, and are from $100 to $500 at par. Representative John S. Dayes is here in camp, in the interest of selling these bonds. He motored out from Chicago.

Rev. H. Wennermarke of Aurora arrived in camp on Tuesday and expects to remain until Saturday. He is in the Barber cottage. Mr. Wennermarke is Chaplain of the American Legion of Aurora having 1000 members and called the Roosevelt Post.

Misses Gladys McDonald, Katherine Connor, Inez Hawks, Hazel Blaine, Clella Corbin, Lucille Ioder, are camping at Wobbe Inn. Their home is Walnut, Ill.

C. E. Derr of Milledgeville, daughter Miss Verna, and Mrs. Forney are here.

Reservations for the special Sundays, August 6 and 13 may be made at any time previous to the day. A reserved seat costs only 25c to any season ticket holder. Reservation is included with the admission price of

CARNIVALS OF CRIME

There must be some method by which a community may avoid having street carnivals locate in its midst or on its borders. The city of Dixon has very wisely declined permits to carnivals to show inside the city limits and Mayor Smith is to be congratulated upon his stand. Probably Dixon people have failed to fully appreciate the reasons for this attitude until the last week.

There is a question whether the county officials have a right to bar all carnivals out of the county, regardless of merit, but there is a way to keep them out, just the same.

The show outfits such as the community objects to fatten on vice and vulgarity. County officers have a right to prevent games of chance and indecent attractions. Close up every gambling device and every indecent show, and the kind of carnival we object to will move on, for that kind of a carnival does not make its profit on the merry-go-round.

There is a feeling in Dixon and Lee county that illicit liquor has introduced sufficient tragedy here. Any steps the authorities take to end this evil will be given strong public support, we feel sure. While we realize that the apprehension and conviction of the bootlegger is not the easiest job in the world, still we believe that the practice can be kept down to a minimum by tireless and ceaseless campaigning against the liquor traffic.

FAME YOU DESERVE

The world knows nothing about its greatest men. Our greatest are not stars who live by exhibition of themselves and abilities, but quiet people who think and work in modest seclusion.

Walkely, brilliant dramatic critic of the London Times, makes this observation. It is true.

History will remember the "great" men who plunged the world into the World War. History will paint in bright colors the men who carried on the work of destruction for more than four years.

But history will be strangely silent about a greater than these—the plo-ders who now are patiently repairing the damages, toiling to rebuild a civilization, burned out to its very skeleton.

The men who really are repairing the war's damages are not the Prominent Gentlemen who get their names in the newspaper headlines.
The real builders are the farmers toiling to restore food supply to normal, the mechanics furnishing the materials to replace what was destroyed, and the unadvertised millions contributing their daily mites to the war debt.

A peculiar thing is fame. And always it is unfair, the lucky individual getting more than he deserves.

Watt is famous for inventing the steam engine. Yet his discovery of the principle would have been worthless if it had not been for the unknown thousands who patiently had worked out mechanical movements and methods of converting iron ore into steel. All Watt did was gather up these loose ends, put them together, add a new idea and march into history with credit for the whole thing.

Most famous men "borrow" nine-tenths of their invention, skill or art.

Men work with many things, from farm soil to metals and chemical magic. In proper combinations, these bring fame.

But the greatest material man works with is man himself—his character. And the greatest men are the ones who emerge with the greatest character.

Character, by its example and contagion, is the only thing a man can build with permanence. It outlasts the pyramids.

And you, as you look back over your life, probably will agree that the greatest person you ever met was some individual who never rose above obscurity. Yet he made a success of his life.

Fame is futile. Crave it not.
What counts most is personal satisfaction with what we have made of ourselves and our life's work. We leave this world as we enter it—alone
—and in the last analysis each man is his own best judge.

BREAD

The world's wheat crop this year will furnish only a trifle more than a bushel and a half of wheat for each inhabitant.

A hungry man would make a bushel and a half of wheat disappear on short notice.

Is wheat-bread losing out as the staff of life? If not, it can hardly claim to be more than a frail bamboo cane.

DRINK

Hainisch, president of Austria, writes American friends that his country "is at last awake to the necessity of a great action against alcohol." The government over there has provided 50,000,000 kronen for a half-way prohibition campaign.

This is one of many indications that John Barleycorn and his relatives are doomed internationally.
Whether they like it or not, many now living will see the day when all civilized countries will class alcohol where it belongs, with drugs.

SQUIRMING

Roger Dolan writes. He thinks this country is in an awful mess. "Industrial conditions are hopelessly confused, like a tangled skein of yarn.
Situation is extremely complicated."

Mr. Dolan is wrong. The Industrial situation is simple: Business is squirmling to escape taxation. Individuals are squirmling to escape cut in their incomes. Everyone wants to receive a war-boom income and be able to spend it at pre-war prices.

In the last analysis all this squirming is a frantic attempt to escape paying for the war. There is no escape.

KISSES

By Berton Braley

I WOULDN'T be too free with my kisses,
Little Lady,
Though a kiss is very sweet to give or take;
For perhaps some later period than this is,
Little Lady,
You will wish you'd saved them all for Someone's sake
Though a kiss is nothing wrong
When the Right Man comes along.
You'll remember how you gave them for a whim,
And if you have been too free with your kisses,
Little Lady,
You'll regret you haven't hoarded them for him!

I WOULDN'T be too free wit my kisses,
Little Lady,
They are coinage from the treasure house of love;
They are tenderest and loveliest of blisses,
Little Lady,
Which have fluttered down from Paradise above,
So I'd cherish them until
You can taste the perfect thrill
When love's marvelous enchantment binds you fast,
And I wouldn't be too free with my kisses,
Little Lady,
Till the Right Man comes to gather them at last!

SIS SPARROW IS BEAUTIFIED

"Goodness," said kind Nancy. "Are you sick?"

Dr. Snuffles and Nancy and Nick were on their way home through Old Orchard when they heard someone crying.

It was Sis Sparrow.
"Goodness," said kind Nancy. "Are you sick?"

"Yes. Sick of being mud-colored," squaked the little bird-girl. "Why can't I be handsome like Will Woodpecker? He's got a bright red head and wonderful white wings with black on 'em."

"You can see him a mile off. But I'll tell you, when I'm on the road, or on a fence, or in a puddle, you can't see me at all. I'm just plain old ugly brown."

Now I can't tell you all that happened, my dears, but Nancy and Nick and the Fairyman doctor began to whisper together and in a minute they said something to poor Sis, who brightened immediately.

REED'S LEAD UNDER FIRE AS MISSOURI DISTRICTS REPORT

But His Nomination is Conceded By Enemy
Newspaper.

BULLETIN

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Senator James A. Reed continued to maintain his lead in the democratic senatorial contest when belated returns began coming in early today. With 3420 out of 3848 precincts in the state reporting, he had a lead of 7870 over Breckenridge Long. The vote for these precincts stood: Reed 184,666; Long 176,787.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—With a lead of nearly 9,000 votes on the face of unofficial returns from all but 442 of the 3,848 precincts in the state, supporters of United States Senator James A. Reed today declared he had defeated Breckenridge Long for the democratic senatorial nomination, while Long expressed confidence that the unheard-from units would bring him success.

When told of the latest returns by the Associated Press—the former third assistant secretary of state said: "I'll win out yet."

The belief of Reed supporters that he had won the contest apparently was strengthened when the St. Louis Globe Democrat, an independent newspaper, which fought Reed's candidacy, appeared with a two column picture of the senator on the first page under the caption "Wins Nomination."

The Globe Democrat asserted Reed apparently had been victorious by 4,000 to 6,000 votes, adding that "the districts yet unheard from are remote from populous centers and their vote is small."

Reed's lead of 25,000 yesterday morning on the face of returns from more than half the precincts of the state, but which included Kansas City and St. Louis, was whittled down steadily yesterday afternoon as returns from rural precincts drifted in.

Many rural precincts gave Long a big vote, and returns early today from 3,405 precincts gave Reed 185,380, to Long 176,455. As the unreported precincts are in the rural districts, Long stated they would be favorable to him, while Reed supporters declared a number of precincts from southern Missouri would vote a heavy republican vote and that the democratic return would be negligible.

Beer Advocate Loses.

R. R. Brewster is the apparent republican senatorial nominee, and it is believed his majority will exceed 30,000. Returns from 2,728 precincts gave him 73,481 as against 63,856 for William Sacks, "light wines and beer" advocate; 10,954 for Colonel John H. Parker, the "soldier candidate"; 31,509 for Attorney General Jess W. Barrett; 23,896 for John C. McKinley of Unionville and 23,296 for David M. Proctor of Kansas City. The three latter are announced progressives.

Congressman W. W. Rucker apparently has been defeated for the democratic nomination in the second district. One hundred and fifty-one precincts out of 191 gave Ralph Lozier 15,522; Rucker 11,338, and Clarence Ragstate 237.

One Woman in Lead.

Mrs. St. Clair Moss of Christian College, Columbia, was leading two male candidates for the democratic nomination in the 8th district; and J. Scott Wolf was leading in the 13th district for the democratic nomination.

Congressman I. V. McPherson was running second in the fifteenth district for the republican nomination, the vote from 120 out of 230 precincts being McPherson, 3,936; Joe J. Manlove, 5,408 and James T. Tatum, 3,115.

Thomas L. Rubey was far ahead of his two opponents for the democratic nomination in the 16th district, 83 of 202 precincts gave Rubey, 4,029; Lawrence T. McGee, 1,900, and Dan M. Gause, 1,909.

BASE HITS

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Yankees, by taking the measure of Speakers' Indians, 5-1, while the Browns were losing a home run hitting tilt to the Athletics, 8-4, have moved to within a game of the league leading St. Louisans.

Kenneth Williams of the Browns, with his sixth circuit blow in as many days, increased his season total to 28, and now is leading the home run hitters of both major leagues. Hornsby of the Cardinals, previously led with 27, Hauser, McGowan and Miller of the Mackmen accounted for four base hits in the same game.

The Yankees' victory over Cleveland was marked by the hurling of "Bullet Joe" Bush, who held the Speakerites to two hits, one a single by Jameson in the first frame and the other a triple by Wamby, in the ninth. Wamby was brought home by Speaker's sacrifice fly for the only Indian score. Meusel and Ruth had a battling frolic, the former accounting for a homer and a single and Ruth two two baggers and a single.

Walter Johnson proved, as usual, too great an enigma for the White Sox and the Senators won, 4-1.

The only National League contest, between the Cubs and the Phillies, went 15 innings to a 7-7 tie and then was called because of the condition of the diamond.

Hubert "Shucks" Pruett, southpaw collegian of the Browns broke into the game against the Athletics yesterday, despite his being listed on the "in-eligible" list by the club physician. Other cripples listed with the Browns' medicine club are forth, Hank Severed, Frank Ellerbe and "Dixie" Davis.

Hornsby, the Cardinals star, changed his style of batting to make a major league record, it has developed. On joining the club he choked his bat about six inches. Now he has a two fisted grasp at the end of the stick, which is proving effective.

The veteran Walter Johnson pitched in his old time form and although he struck out only three of the White Sox he was stingy with his hits, being touched for only four.

Roger Beckinpugh is playing a whale of a game for the Senators, and his work in the game against the White Sox yesterday was a big help to Walter Johnson.

The Athletics broke the winning streak of the Browns who have won four in a row, when they took the opening game at St. Louis.

"Bullet Joe" Bush had something more than his glove when he faced the Indians, when he left them down with two hits, while the Yankees pounded Stanley Coveleskie freely.

"Hack" Miller, the strong man of the Cubs, saved the game in the fourteenth inning yesterday when he went to the bleachers and took Henline's drive, depriving him of a homer.

Jameson, leading off for the Indians, got the first hit off Bush yesterday and there was nothing doing in the hit line again for Speaker's tribe until the 9th, when Wamby led off with a triple, and scored on a sacrifice fly saving his pals a shutout.

HARDING MUCH 'SCULPED' AND PAINTED MAN

President Forced to Give Much Time to Artists.

One of President Harding's semi-official duties is to sit for his portrait. This has ever been the penalty of greatness. Napoleon, Dante, Washington and Lincoln have all had their likenesses portrayed in painting, sculpture, medals, engravings, singly and in groups, and separate books have been published with reproductions of these various kinds of portraiture.

Howard Chandler Christy has recently painted a portrait of President Harding, seated in a restful pose, which is full of dignity.

Pierre Nuytens, the Belgian artist made a portrait etching of the president, while attending the Washington conference.

A miniature portrait of Mr. Harding just finished, is the work of Miss Edith H. Whitehead, a member of the Royal Society of Miniaturists in London.

Sally James Farnham, the sculptor of the heroic figure of General Bolla recently unveiled in New York, has modeled a portrait bust of Mr. Harding, which is said to be a "striking likeness of the President in a rather stern mood."

A portrait medal of President Harding has been made for the French government by Madame Mouroux, the first woman to win the French Prix de Rome.

The Harding Peace Medal has been issued by the Philadelphia mint, and is now on sale. This medal bears the likeness of President Harding in bas-relief profile which was designed by George T. Morgan, an engraver in the mint since 1876. The name Warren G. Harding surrounds the head in raised letters. On the reverse side is the American eagle, back of which is the word "Peace." Below the eagle are the words "Inaugurated President of the United States, Mar. 4, 1921." A setting sun, bay leaves, a shield, a book, and a Roman lamp are also found on the medal.

This is the twenty-ninth peace medal. The first American peace medal, which originated in the time of George Washington, contained on its reverse side the words "Peace and Friendship," above which were clasped hands, a symbol of the friendly relations between the white and the red men.

The RED HOUSE MYSTERY

by AAMILNE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

It was with considerable disgust that MARK ABLETT, bachelor proprietor of The Red House, had informed his house-party guests that his brother-in-law, Robert, had been killed.

ROBERT, who had been absent for 15 years in Australia, was to visit him that afternoon.

MATT CAYLEY, awaited the arrival of Robert after lunch, the guests playing golf. Robert arrived and was ushered into Mark's office by the maid.

AUDREY STEVENS, who went to inform her mother, before she found Mark a shot was heard and ANTONY GILLINGHAM, a friend of WILL BEVERLEY, one of Mark's guests, entered the house to find Cayley pounding on the locked door and demanding admittance.

The two men entered the office through a window and discovered a body on the floor with a shot in the head. Mark was not to be found and the dead man, Cayley, told Anthony, was the brother who had just arrived.

GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

GUESTS at The Red House were allowed to do what they liked within reason—the reasonable or otherwise of it being decided by Mark. But when once they for Mark had made up their minds as to what they wanted to do, the plan had to be kept. Mrs. Calladine, who knew this little weakness of their host's, resisted, therefore, the suggestion of Bill that they should have a second round of golf in the afternoon, and drive home comfortably after tea.

Anthony was standing in front of the house, waiting for them. Bill waved, and he waved back. Then as the car drew up, Bill, who was in front with the chauffeur, jumped down and greeted him eagerly.

"Hallo, you madman, have you come to stay, or what?" He had a sudden idea. "Don't say you're Mark Ablett's long-lost brother from Australia, though I could quite believe it of you." He laughed boisterously.

"Hallo, Bill," said Anthony quietly. "Will you introduce me? I'm afraid I've got some bad news."

Bill, rather sobered by this, introduced him. The Major and Mrs. Calladine were on the near side of the car, and Anthony spoke to them in a low voice.

"I'm afraid I'm going to give you rather a shock," he said. "Robert Ablett, Mr. Mark Ablett's brother, has been killed." He jerked a thumb over his shoulder. "In the house."

"Do you mean that he has just killed himself?" asked Mrs. Calladine.

"It was about two hours ago, I happened to come here," he half-turned to Beverley and explained. "I was coming to see you, Bill, and I arrived just after the death. Mr. Cayley and I found the body. Mr. Cayley being busy just now—there are police and doctors and so on in the house—he asked me to tell you. He says that no doubt you would prefer, the house-party having been broken up in this tragic way, to leave as soon as possible. He gave a pleasant apologetic little smile.

Bill gazed with open mouth at Anthony. Mrs. Calladine was quietly mistress of herself.

"We shall be in the way, yes, I quite understand," she said, "but we can't just shake the dust of the place off our shoes because something terrible has happened there. I must see Mark. He must know how very deeply we feel for him. Perhaps we—she hesitated.

"The Major and I might be useful anywhere," said Bill.

"Where is Mark?" said the Major suddenly, looking hard at Anthony.

Anthony looked back unwaveringly—and said nothing.

"I think," said the Major gently, leaning over to Mrs. Calladine, "that it would be better if you took Betty back to London tonight."

"Very well," she agreed quietly. As Anthony re-entered the hall, the Inspector from Middleton was just crossing into the library with Cayley. The latter stopped and nodded to Anthony.

"Wait a moment, Inspector. Here's Mr. Gillingham." And then to Anthony, "This is Inspector Birch."

Birch looked inquiringly from one to the other.

"Mr. Gillingham and I found the body together," explained Cayley. "Oh! Well, come along, and let's get the facts sorted out a bit."

They went into the library. The Inspector seated himself at a writing-table, and Cayley sat in a chair by the side of it. Anthony made himself comfortable in an armchair and prepared to be interested.

"We'll start with the dead man," said the Inspector. "Robert Ablett, didn't you say?" He took out his notebook.

"Yes. Brother of Mark Ablett, who lives here."

Anthony listened attentively while the Inspector looked at him with a smile.

"Yes, well, we shall have to go over some of that again, Mr. Cayley. Mr. Mark, now. Did he say anything?"

"He said, 'Robert's here' or something of the sort. I said 'Yes,' and he gave a sort of shrug, and said, 'Don't go too far away, I might want you,' and then went in."

"What did you think he meant by that?"

"Well, he consults me a good deal, you know. I'm his sort of unofficial solicitor in a kind of way."

"Yes. How long was it before you heard the shot?"

"Two minutes, perhaps."

The Inspector finished his writing, and then regarded Cayley thoughtfully. Suddenly he said:

"What is your theory of Robert's death?"

Cayley shrugged his shoulders. "You've probably seen more than I've seen," he answered. "I can only speak as a layman—and Mark's friend."

"Then I should say that Robert came here meaning trouble, and bringing a revolver with him. He produced it almost at once, Mark tried to get it from him, there was a little struggle perhaps, and it went off. Mark lost his head, finding himself with a revolver in his hand and a dead man at his feet. His one idea was to escape. He locked the door almost instinctively, and then, when he heard me hammering at it, went out of the window."

"Yes—yes. Well, that sounds reasonable enough. What do you say, Mr. Gillingham?"

"I should hardly call it 'reasonable' to lose your head," said Anthony, getting up from his chair and coming toward them.

"Well, you know what I mean. It explains things."

"Oh, yes. Any other explanation would make them much more complicated."

"Give you any other explanation?"

"Not I." "Well now, about yourself. You're not staying in the house, I gather?"

Anthony explained his previous movements.

"Yes. Did you hear the shot?"

"Yes. Just as I came in sight of the house. It didn't make any impression at the time, but I remember it now."

"Where were you then?"

"Coming up the drive."

"Nobody left the house by the front door after the shot?"

"Nobody," he said. "No."

"Thank you. You're at 'The George,' if I want you?"

"Mr. Gillingham is staying here, until after the inquest," explained Cayley.

"He didn't appear to be."

"Right. . . . Now then, he arrived, you say, about three o'clock?"

"Yes, about that."

"Who was in the house then?"

"Mark and myself, and some of the servants. I don't know which. Of course, you will ask them directly, no doubt."

"With your permission. No guests?"

"They were out all day playing golf."

"Where were you when Robert arrived?" asked Birch.

Cayley explained how he had been sitting in the hall, how Audrey had asked him where the master was, and how he had said that he had last seen him going up to the Temple.

"She went away, and I went on with my book. There was a step on the stairs, and I looked up to see Mark coming down. He went into the office, and I went on with my book again. I went into the library for a moment, to refer to another book, and when I was in there I heard a shot. At least, it was a loud bang. I wasn't sure it was a shot. I stood and listened. Then I came slowly to the door and looked out. Then I went back again, hesitated a bit, you know, and finally decided to go across to the office, and make sure that it was all right. I turned the handle of the door and found it was locked. Then I got frightened, and I banged at the door, and shouted, and—well, that was when Mr. Gillingham arrived."

"He went on to explain how they had found the body."

The Inspector looked at him with a smile.

"Yes, well, we shall have to go over some of that again, Mr. Cayley. Mr. Mark, now. Did he say anything?"

"He said, 'Robert's here' or something of the sort. I said 'Yes,' and he gave a sort of shrug, and said, 'Don't go too far away, I might want you,' and then went in."

Ignored Threats of Death; Found Dead

Auburn, Ill., Aug. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Ignoring threats of death given him by three men who woke him from sleep Monday morning by firing over his head, John Markesi, 48, a peaceful Italian miner, was found dead outside his home early today, by Detective Guidotti, who had watched with him until last midnight. A blow in the back of the head had killed him. His revolver lay beside his body unused.

Following the first visit of the three men Monday which he reported to the police, Mr. Mackesi was authorized to carry a gun to defend himself.

The story as told the police and as corroborated by his neighbor Guidotti was that three men drove to the little house, where Mackesi lived alone, in an automobile, early Monday morning.

All three of them walked to his door and one fired over his head and then warned him in Italian, that he must leave Auburn within 24 hours or suffer death. He watched for a return of the three all Monday and in the company of his neighbor continued the vigil until midnight, when Mackesi said he would go to bed and Guidotti went home.

Discovery of his body outside his house this morning indicates that he did not go to bed but continued his vigil, gun in hand. The blow that killed him was dealt with a blunt heavy instrument and came from behind. It killed him before he could make an outcry. His revolver lay beside his body where it was dropped as he fell.

Both the sheriff and coroner from Springfield have started an investigation to determine the cause of the murder, and the identity of the slayers.

Strikers Ordered in Court at Galesburg

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 2.—Striking railroad shippers of the Chicago Burlington & Quincy Railroad at Galesburg and Beardstown, who are alleged to have violated the temporary injunction against picketing have been ordered to appear in the federal court here to show why they should not be cited for contempt.

It was unofficially reported that fifty strikers have been summoned. Nothing regarding the matter, however, could be learned officially. It was said the strikers will be arraigned in court as soon as they arrive here. Proceedings have been unannounced, until now. It was said, so that offenders would not have time to evade the orders to appear in court.

Young Golfers in Title Tournament

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Six score of young golfers were on the list to tee off today in the 18 hole qualifying round of the Western Junior Championship at Olympia Fields Club, to determine the sixteen who would contest at match play the title now held by Burton Mudge of Chicago.

The field represents many parts of the United States and Canada, and, while all the entrants are under 20 years of age, many of them have shot par golf over the most difficult links and won titles in grueling contests.

The youngest contender is Jack Couck of the Glen View club, Chicago, who is only 12 years old. John Russell of Milwaukee is only one year older.

LOWER PRICE MERELY, OR LOWER COST?

Goodyear has always felt that the thinking tire-buyer was interested less in lower price than in lower final cost.

On that belief Goodyear has built up the largest tire business in the world.

Instead of making tires as cheaply as possible, Goodyear makes them as good as possible.

While such tires cost more than tires made of cheaper materials, they last so much longer they cost less in the end.

Goodyear is not content, however, merely to build the best possible value into Goodyear Tires.

Through Goodyear Dealers a sincere effort is made to help Goodyear users get out of these tires all the value the factory has built into them.

The public has learned that the value built into Goodyear Tires, plus the service rendered by Goodyear Dealers, results in greater tire satisfaction and lower cost.

As a consequence of this knowledge, more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Goodyear Service Station Dealers, also, believe in the Goodyear combination of good value plus good service.

Goodyear Service Stations here in Dixon will be glad to show you how to get greater mileage and greater economy from your tires.

Fire Discloses Big Infirmary for Dogs

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 2.—Through years of decadence Jane, Margaret and Charles Mellon, all middle aged, had occupied the old Mellon home here, once a social center, with the blinds drawn down, unmolested by neighbors. Their chief interest in life apparently was centered in their canine pets.

Yesterday smoke issuing from upper windows summoned firemen and police to the darkened old house. The fire was trivial and soon extinguished, but in examining the house the firemen found nine dead dogs ensnared in old lace and shawls. Eight living dogs were found. Enthroned on a couch was found a white silky haired dog which seemed blinded for lack of light.

The occupants of the residence had inherited the house and other property from their parents and seemed to have converted the place into a domicile for dogs. After the fire the Mellons were taken to the psychopathic hospital, but later were allowed to return home.

Rather Than Transport
I. C. Strike Breakers

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Rather than haul men employed at the Illinois Central Railroad's round house near here and thus escape prosecution on charges of violating the federal injunction order, the taxicab firms of this city last night announced they had gone out of business. This action followed a warning by Deputy U. S. Marshal Sam Toler, that the drivers would be arrested if they refused to haul the employees to the round house. The round house is approximately one and a half miles from the city.

Deputy Marshal Toler it was said, acted on the strength of a decision given several days ago by Federal Judge English of East St. Louis who ruled that everybody, who in any way, interfered with the operation of the railroad was subject to prosecution on ground of violating the federal injunctions granted the railroad.
